A reward of $200 was offered by Mayor Phil G. Hiddleston today, for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties involved in the death of John Goldner, Salem man who was murdered last October.

Hiddleston announced his offer following efforts to secure cooperation of Columbiana county authorities in the investigations on the case. He repeatedly urged county officials to offer a reward for arrest of persons responsible for Goldner's murder, in hopes that the mystery would be solved.

Police Quiz Many
Salem police, since the discovery of Goldner's body, in a field southwest of the city, where he had gone in the search of wild honey, have conducted extensive investigations and have grilled more than ten suspects. All were released after police were unable to connect them with the man's death.

Hiddleston's offer is made personally, he states, and the amount is now on deposit in the First National bank. The sum will be paid the party providing information in the matter immediately upon conviction of parties named.

The reward offer, he states, is prompted by his desire to see the case solved and crossed off the books.

The Goldner murder was probably the most brutal in Salem crime history. Starting out early Monday morning, Oct. 8, to search for wild honey with an axe and pan, his body was found the next day, lying (Continued from Page One)

ADMIT, DENIES
GIRL KIDNAPINGYouth Claims He Left
Girl Near Salem;
Changes Story

Youngstown, O., April 23.—Desire for publicity and the belief he would be paid large sums for writing articles about the kidnapping of Beatrice Rosenbaum, 10, led Harold Harshman, 15, to "confess" the crime, he admitted today, after refuting the story. Meanwhile the boy is held in county jail while county officials and police investigate further.

At first the boy told police he kidnaped the girl 11 months ago and left her to die in a wooded ravine near Salem, in order to get revenge against her brother with whom he had quarreled. Police were convinced of his guilt and still believe he may have been responsible but county officials believe the latter story in which he denies the kidnapping.

If the confession is found to be false Harshman is found to be passing a worthless check, police said. The kidnapping of the Rosenbaum girl has never been solved.

Graf Zeppelin took off at 1:33 o'clock this afternoon upon her second Mediterranean voyage.

The decision to undertake the flight was made suddenly as it had been announced yesterday that the voyage had been postponed indefinitely.

Dr. Hugo Eskener, head of the Zeppelin works, is in command.
The weather was cool and cloudy.
The ship rose easily and disappeared in a westerly direction.

Measure To Meet
With Wishes

Washington, April 23.—President Hoover today received fresh support in his fight against the export debenture plan of farm relief when house leaders declared they would kill any debenture plan which may pass the senate.

Having been relieved of the embarrassment of the long fight over the McNary-Haugen equalization fee bill, the house backers of the $500,- 000,000 Federal Farm Board Bill displayed considerable resentment over the action of the Senate Agriculture committee in voting to include the debenture plan in the McNary Bill.

The situation threatened to revive the enmity between the two houses of congress which became so pronounced during the last regular session that congressional leaders were forced to make appeals to members to temporize their remarks.

"I only know of three members of the house who favor the debenture plan," said Rep. Haugen of Iowa, chairman of the house committee.

"If the senate passed the debenture plan we will kill it in conference," asserted Rep. Aswell of Louisiana.

"If we are going to have farm relief the debenture plan must be defeated," said Rep. Williams of Illinois, one of five authors of the house bill.

Meantime administration leaders in the senate were attempting to rally votes against the debenture plan, which was included as an optional feature in the McNary Bill.
"I feel certain that the senate,"

CHAIR AWAIT
FOUR VICTIMSInmates of Ohio Death House View End In Different Ways

Columbus, O., April 23.—Death row at the Ohio state penitentiary here, in which four men aged 20, 21, 28 and 32, are awaiting death or a legal stay to ward off "society's death blow," became the paramount topic in the prison today, through two new developments and the rapid approach of the electrocution of one of the men.

Rodney Ford, 28, Cincinnati convicted murderer, who has been praying and hoping that the stay which he is now enjoying will result in a new trial, is eagerly awaiting news of his appeal.

Little does he know! The Cincinnati court of appeals yesterday refused him the new trial and ordered that he be executed May 14.
The doomed convict will not be told until the official order has been transmitted to prison authorities, which will probably be two or three days hence.

Sailor Faces Death

James Nevins, 32, Cleveland lake sailor, whose ship of life is scheduled to go down in the sea of eternity via the electric chair on July 1, is showing the world he is an anarchist and the shadows of death do not appall him. Nevins wrote two letters to friends in Buffalo, which received more than usual attention from Warden P. E. Thomas. He had copies of them made and distributed them to the press.

In the letters, Nevins calls the Atlanta federal penitentiary, "Aunt Mabel's playhouse," terms the Cuyahoga county prison, in which he beat a Detroit salesman to death,
"Ed Hanratty's contemptible jail," and scorns society in which might be brilliant satire, if it had come off the pen of one of the world's hu-morsists.

John Sabo, 21-year-old Akron youth, is to die in the chair a week from Friday night, unless the hand of Gov. Cooper stays the "thunderbolt of the law."

The other inmate in the "aisle of the doomed" is Leo Ackers, 20-year-old Cleveland Negro, who is to be electrocuted for the murder of a Cleveland filling station attendant.

Sun Shines In Boston

Boston, April 23.—Sunshine, for the first time in nearly a week covered New England today and the cessation of rain combined with generally low temperatures decreased the serious menace of floods.

"A dead man cannot be disciplined," MacCracken said. "Because of the fact that pilots become 'case hardened' to deaths in the air, such accidents have little disciplinary effect on other flyers."

"If newspaper reports are true Lieut. Keefe, the army pilot, undoubtedly would have received severe discipline from the army for his actions."

Washington, April 23.—Aeronautical science has perfected aircraft failures were on the decline at the beginning of 1929.

On the other hand the increases in accidents directly attributable to errors and carelessness of pilots and other personnel increased at an alarming rate during the last six months.

retary for civil aeronautics, today disclosed percentage figures, in connecting with the tragedy at San Diego, Calif., in which a crash of planes ended the lives of six per-

Steubenville, O., April 23.—Mrs.
Frank B. Murphy, Steubenville, wife of Congressman Murphy of Ohio, was killed in an automobile accident near Ocala, Fla., yesterday, according to word received here today.

In the automobile, which was said to have been traveling at a high rate of speed when it went out of control and turned over several times, were Mrs. Murphy's mother, another woman and two men.

They were placed in an Ocala hospital, where it was learned their injuries are not serious.
Pending advices from Congressman Murphy, who is in Washington, D. C., the body of Mrs. Murphy was held in Ocala.

To Figure In Evidence

Los Angeles, Cal., April 23.—Notes made by Miss Cecilia Kelly, one of the victims of the airplane crash over San Diego Sunday, today were held in a safety deposit box pending investigation of the tragedy.

One of the last things she jotted down on a piece of note paper was:
"Army plane—stunting—near!"

These notes, according to Maddux Air Line officials, will be used to show that Lieut. Howard W. Keefe was responsible for the mid-air smash-up which resulted in the death and the death of five others.

Miss Kelly was a feature writer for a Phoenix, Ariz. newspaper and was enroute to Phoenix when the Maddux plane in which she was riding was struck by the army pursue plane piloted by Lieut. Keefe.
She was formerly employed by the Denver Post.

People of Onrush of Waters

Snow Lake, Ark., April 23.—Nearly 1,000 persons had been washed out of house and home today as the result yesterday of the crumbling of part of the Lumbia Circle levee.

The wild clanging of farm bells and the insistent ring of rural telephones spread the alarm of the advancing wall of water so quickly that there was no loss of life and nearly all the livestock was saved.

The break in the levee was attributed to the pressure of the backwaters which have been banked against it for weeks.

13,000 Acres Covered

An area of nearly 13,000 acres was inundated.

The natives were rushed to safety by automobile caravans and on Missouri Pacific trains.

The levee broke at a point only a mile from Snow Lake, the only town in the circle. Some sought refuge on high mounds built years ago for this emergency.

The break was discovered by a levee patrol. The men heard the waters roar half mile away.

Bells, whistles and guns throughout the area signaled the break and men in autos and on motor cycles carried the alarm to the mere remote homes.

Rochester, N. Y., April 23.—Intense suffering and heavy property damage resulted here last night and today when the Genesee river, swollen by the incessant rainfall of the past week, overflowed its banks.

Water Still Rises

The water was still rising this morning, but the improved weather is expected to hold down further damage.

The rising waters marooned more than 50 families in Scottsville and river roads, while several roads in outlying districts are inundated to such an extent that access to the main highways has been cut off.

Innumerable occupants of dwellings along the river banks were forced to flee their homes.

GRAND LARCENY
TRIAL TONIGHTMrs. Joe Plegge, Mill St., Charged
With Theft of Rug, Cabinet
By Store Manager

Mrs. Joe Plegge, Mill street, will go on trial in Mayor Phil G. Hid-dleston's court tonight on a charge of grand larceny, preferred against her by S. R. Levenson, manager of the Reichart Furniture company.

Levenson, in an affidavit, alleges Mrs. Plegge stole a kitchen cabinet and rug, valued at more than $100 from a neighbor's home. The cabinet and rug, he states, is the property of his store.

The case was continued from last week until tonight by Mayor Hiddleston. Atty. C. K. Scott will represent the Reichart company, and Atty. H.
H. Hickling has been retained by Mrs. Plegge as her counsel.

Washington, April 23.—Having placed America's disarmament cards on the table at Geneva, face up, Washington sat back today and waited for the world's great naval powers to match them.

Stripped of six-cylinder words and niceties of diplomatic expression, the American offer amounts to this:

for gun. The sky's the limit."

But one condition is thrown about the American offer, that is that from battle cruisers to destroyers.

BATTLE BREWING
IN SONORA AREA;
TROOPS MOVING

Nogales, Sonora, Mexico, April 23.— Rebel commanders continued to hurry troops to the south today, in anticipation of a decisive battle which will probably be fought in the vicinity of Masiaca. The federal forces under the command of General Cardenas are reported to be at Don, Sonora, 20 miles south of Masiaca.

Rebel headquarters today reported that the advance guard of General Juan Andreu Almazan's troops had been trapped in Pulpito Pass and suffered considerable losses. Twenty federal were reported to have been killed, many wounded and 100 captured when they attempted to force their way through the pass. Mines took a heavy toll and sniping of Yaqui Indians added to the casualties, it was reported.

Pedro Robles, alleged to have been a federal spy, was executed here yesterday by a rebel firing squad. He was captured while inspecting rebel fortifications.

Another member of the contingent at Nogales, Ariz., was arrested here a few days ago when he crossed the line. It is also believed that he was executed.

That General Francisco Urbalejo, Yaqui chieftain, has deserted the rebel cause was admitted here today by rebel leaders. He crossed the line late Sunday night and is now reported to be at Naco, Sonora, in conference with Generals Manzo and Bernal, who previously had de-fected from rebels.

Reports that the forces of General Urbalejo had disbanded and had gone to their mountain homes in the south of Sonora were denied by rebel leaders.

Refugees arriving here from the south reported the people in the Yaqui and Mayo river valleys were in a desperate plight, as the rebels have confiscated all footstuffs in that vicinity. They reported that federal planes are making daily flights over Navajo and other valley towns and warning civilians, particularly foreigners, to leave the district.

ALIMONY TIDE TURNS

It looks like a hard future for gold-digging wives who obtain divorces chiefly for the sake of the easy living which alimony will bring them. The tables are turning in favor of the husband, who, until recently, has been compelled almost universally to support his ex-matrimonial wife, no matter which was to blame for the marital rift.

Five states already have passed laws allowing courts to grant alimony to husbands where the wife is at fault in the divorce and where there are children to be supported. Several others now deny the wife the right to recover alimony where she is to blame for the divorce, and now a national agitation is under way to abolish alimony where the wife is young, able-bodied, childless, and particularly, where she is responsible for the divorce.

Joseph P. Pollard, widely-known lawyer and writer, points out this change in an article written for North American Review, in which he characterizes the present divorce laws of a majority of the states as archaic.

A big percentage of divorces, he maintains, are traceable to wives who deliberately bring them about in order to insure themselves a livelihood without either work or marriage obligations.

Wives now are able to control and dispose of their property, the same as if they were single," he points out. "They are able to enter business with the same facility as their husbands. They are entitled to vote, hold political positions, serve on juries and do countless other things forbidden under the old laws. But where rights have emerged from the statute books, the corresponding duties have not. Women's late freedom has given her not economic equality, but economic superiority. For the purpose of winning financial profits from marital strife, she still can jump back on her ancient pedestal and strike her ancient pose."

He points to Wisconsin where the law now enables the husband to exact alimony when the wife is at fault and there are children to support. In California, a husband can be granted alimony if he is the innocent party, even though there are no children. Similar laws are now effective in Oregon and Iowa, while in Washington a wife can be held equally responsible with the husband for the support of the children.

CHARLES BURKE

When Charles Burke passed away a few days ago he ended a career which had won for him widespread respect throughout the city. As a mason and bricklayer he was honest and conscientious in his work. In all his dealings he was fair. His quiet manner and good nature brought him friends in all walks of life. He rose above the common level of his craft, ever maintaining the respect which ambition and courtesy and honesty had gained him. Such men are assets to any community.

What Others Say

SENATOR COOLIDGE?
The Boston Transcript gives three reasons why "unsion" or "fore" should be used to nominate Calvin Coolidge for the senate in 1930, as successor to Senator Gillett. They are that Mr. Coolidge needs a job, that Massachusetts needs him, and that he is his party's only hope in an off year when "any one of at least three Democrats could enter the contest with excellent prospects of victory." The second of these reasons would seem to be sufficient, although Massachusetts needs not alone benefit. The country needs Mr. Coolidge and a lot more like him in the senate, as much as his adopted state does.

Any state in the union would be honored by opening a seat for Calvin Coolidge. This is not because he has been president, but because of the kind of president he has been. The qualities that prominently fitted him for the White House are sadly needed on Capitol Hill. Common sense and a disinclination to talk without having something to say are merits for which the senate is not conspicuous. Whether or not Mr. Coolidge, as a senator, would add to the reputation he established as president is another question.

There is a possibility that he would be smothered in senatorial verbosity before his colleagues felt the impress of his golden reticence. At that, a man of his wide experience and native determination of purpose could hardly fail to slow up the wheels that revolve so erratically in the average senator's brains.

There is no doubt that Mr. Coolidge, if nominated, would be elected. Whether or not he would be willing to accept a nomination that meant giving up a well-earned repose for the hurly-burly of public life from which he has so recently escaped can not be so readily answered. Once before there was talk of drafting him. Only a high sense of public duty is likely to induce Mr. Coolidge to return to the scene. Any attempt to force him into involuntary servitude to partisan interests would risk being met by another "I do not choose to run," which he would adhere to, again, with the granitic loyalty his Vermont hills have for their firm base.—Detroit Free Press.

A young mother has many questions to ask about her baby. Perhaps she was brought up in a family where there were no babies after her own arrival. She may never have come in contact with little ones. A baby is such a novelty that she has everything to learn about it.

I heard my own mother say many times that hardly a day passed but she had an agony of fear over her first baby. The strange little choking sounds that youngsters produce are alarming if not understood. I wish there were some way to give every expectant mother the fullest possible information about such things. Since there are few schools for this purpose, each of us must help.

I think it was Lincoln who said he was "the most advised person in the world." The young mother must feel the same way. All the kindhearted women in the neighborhood, as well as the nurse and doctor, will tell her things, many of them truly remarkable things, about infants.

What are some of the questions that will occur to a young mother?

1. What is the name of the "soft spot" in the baby's head and how long will it last?

This is called the "fontanel." Usually it closes and the softness disappears between the sixteenth and eighteenth months.

2. Can a baby see, and do all of them have blue eyes?

A newly born baby does not see well. As it grows, the eyes develop. Do not be alarmed if the infant appears to be cross-eyed. After the fourth month this squinting will disappear.

Almost all new babies have blue eyes. The permanent coloring appears later.

3. What about the senses of hearing, smelling and tasting?

New born infants hear little, but in a few days the hearing is likely to become very acute. The same may be said of the smelling sense.

All babies can taste from the very beginning. But, like the other senses, it becomes more developed as time passes.

4. Are babies alike as regards the quantity of hair?

No, they differ materially. Some are born bald. Others have a lot of hair at birth, but lose it all within a few weeks. Don't worry about the hair—it will come along within a few months.

5. When can a baby sit up and walk?

It is seven or eight months of age before it can sit up without support. Don't hurry it or worry about it. The youngster will get up when it is ready. In the meantime support the back with pillows.

Most babies stand at one year of age. It aided a little. In another couple of months they stand alone. At about fifteen months the average youngster will walk.

Have you other questions, dear mother?

Indigestion
Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

50,000 SCOUTS TO GATHER AT WORLD MEETING

Large Delegation From America Will Attend Convention

BIRKENHEAD, ENG., SCENE OF AFFAIR

Founder of Movement To Address Scouts Of All Nations

London, April 23.—Fifty-thousand boys from all over the world, including a large contingent from the United States, will attend the coming-of-age celebrations of the Boy Scouts association, to be held at the northern English town of Birkenhead in July and August of this year.

The wonderful rally of world youth in celebration of the 21st birthday of the movement will be drawn from over 60 countries, and is described by the organizers as the most cosmopolitan gathering in history.

In great canvas cities that are to spring up on the pleasant parklands of the Wirral Peninsula, close to the Mersey river, there will be gathered together boys from every country in Europe except Russia, from the republics of North and South America, from the far East, and the islands of the Pacific and Atlantic.

From Many Nations
There will be boys from: Argentina, Cuba, Iceland, Liberia, Persia, United States, Ecuador, Iraq, Mexico, Peru, Turkey, China, Egypt, Japan, Bahamas, Siam.

British Empire contingents will include boys from 23 dominions, colonies and protectorates, from such far-flung places as India and New Zealand to Gibraltar and Malaya.

Even Tristan de Cunha, the lonely island in the south Atlantic that is only in touch with the world once or twice a year when some ship engaged on a world pleasure cruise calls, is hoping to send a small delegation. A ship is to call at the island in the near future, and it is hoped that the captain will consent to bring one or two boys to the nearest port.

American boys are chartering a liner for the occasion.

Of the 50,000 scouts expected at Birkenhead, 10,000 will be from foreign countries, the remainder being drawn from English, Scottish, Welsh and Irish scouts.

When the first Scout jamboree was held in London in 1920, there were 1,200 boys, representing 26 nations, while five years ago, at the Copenhagen gathering there were 10,000 scouts from 33 countries.

The main camp will be at Arrowe Park close to Birkenhead and the two supplementary ones are at Upton Park and Overchurch, in the immediate neighborhood.

Visit By Prince

Sir Robert Baden Powell, founder of the movement, will be under canvas with the boys and the camps will be under the command of Brigadier-General Godfrey-Faussett.

The Prince of Wales, it is hoped, will pay a visit, and the opening ceremony will be carried out by the Duke of Connaught, uncle of King George of England and president of the Boy Scout association.

The most spectacular feature of the jamboree will be the daily march past of the nations. In addition, visitors to the camp will have an opportunity of seeing the customs, dances, sports, pastimes and cooking of the youth of almost the whole world. Spectacular demonstrations and displays of scoutcraft are being arranged.

WHEN CATARRH GETS ITS GRIP

Few people realize how serious catarrh really is. They do not know that it is the forerunner of grave dangers. It weakens the resistance and makes its victims easy prey for colds, influenza, grip, pneumonia and also consumption. Sometimes it is the starting point of asthma.

Neglected, it eventually spreads through the system. The stomach, bowels, kidneys and liver become involved. A very large part of the troubles of these organs is due to the insidious attacks of catarrh.

Many people are sick all the time without being confined to bed and who find no rest in living, are suffering from the effects of catarrh.

By them the good results obtained by World's Tonic should make a special appeal. It helps conquer catarrh and it rebuilds the system. The unusual new medicine that is brought from different parts of the world is the result of long study and experiment. It has put thousands on their feet, restoring them to abundant health, and making life both interesting and profitable. Hundreds of sufferers right in Salem have received its wonderful help. Don't let catarrh drag you down when you can get World's Tonic at J. H. Lee and other reliable drug stores. (A-155) Adv.

Plenty of Speed; Poor Control for Hoover

Some kind-hearted baseball coach will have to take President Hoover in hand for a short time to give him a few pointers on the art of throwing a baseball. Plenty of speed but oh, what control! Left to right are Mrs. Hoover, President Hoover, Secretary of Treasury Andrew Mellon, Walter Johnson, manager of the Senators, and Clark Griffith, owner.

Farm Notes Over Ohio

Farmer-owned elevators in Ohio are distributing a steadily-increasing volume of their profits in the form of patronage dividends, to their customers.

"There elevators were established not so much to make earnings on the stock as to develop more efficient marketing machinery through which to sell and to buy," says B. A. Wallace, rural economics department of the Ohio State University here. "Many of these elevators limit the dividends on their stock to 4 or 5 per cent. Six per cent is a common figure, and some pay more."

Audits of the accounts of 10 Ohio farmer-owned elevators, now in the files of the rural economics department, and compiled by an auditor of long and thorough experience, cover periods of four to eight consecutive years in the lives of these enterprises. "Over the entire period these 10 elevators," says Wallace, "averaged 25 per cent per year of net earnings on capital stock; none of them paid over 6 per cent per year on capital stock; the remainder of the earnings went in part to surplus, insuring the permanency of the company, and usually in larger part to patronage dividends which advanced the price of grain sold by the farmers, or reduced the cost of supplies purchased."

"Starting as nearly all of them did, undercapitalized by 25 to 60 per cent, most of them suffered losses in 1920 and 1921 which reduced the already limited capital. When conditions began to improve in 1922, the first use which had to be made of earnings was to wipe out a deficit if one existed, or to pay off the indebtedness resulting from a start with insufficient capital. Then limited dividends on the stock began to be paid; next, patronage dividends began to be set up to the credit of patrons, although the stockholders often voted to allow the company use of the money until most of the indebtedness was paid. Several companies, fortunate in capitalization and fortunate or skillful in avoidance of loss in 1920, have paid patronage dividends almost from the beginning."

"The Delaware elevator in the past seven years has handled nearly two million dollars worth of business, increased its surplus to more than 50 per cent of stock, and has paid dividends to its stockholders of an average of 'per cent on their stock, and 2 and 6 1/2 percent on their patronage, with an average of over 4 per cent on patronage. The West Salem elevator in 10 years has had net earnings of $48,365 of which $14,900 is retained in surplus, $16,500 has been paid to shareholders in stock dividends, and over $17,000 has been paid in dividends on patronage, much of it to non-stockholders."

Plowing which was good plowing last fall isn't necessarily good plowing this spring, says E. A. Silver, extension specialist in agricultural engineering with the Ohio State University here.

"The first characteristic of good plowing is good granulation. The degree of granulation, however, will vary with fall and spring plowing," says Silver. "Plowing which will be followed relatively soon by seeding, should be pulverized to a maximum degree of granulation. For plowing which is to stand for some length of time, a coarser degree of granulation is recommended, especially where soils are heavy. If the soil turns over in large clods and the trash is exposed to view, some subsequent tillage operation may be necessary to further pulverize the soil and bury the trash."

"The second characteristic of good plowing is the complete covering and mixing of trash. No trash of any sort should appear between the furrow lines. By the complete covering of trash, the insect population will be greatly decreased, since weeds and other debris which lie on the surface offer the best possible protection for these pests. Proper set of the plow must be maintained to get this result, and accessory devices such as the jointer, rolling coulters, wires, or chains, are a great help."

Spiritual Healing Recognized In Code Adopted By Congress

Washington, April 23.—President Coolidge's signature to an act passed at this session of congress gives the District of Columbia a new and broadened law regulating the practice of the healing art in which complete freedom for the practice of Christian Science is granted.

The act provides that its terms shall not apply "to persons treating human ailments by prayer or spiritual means as an exercise or enjoyment of religious freedom."

The measure had the approval of the commissioners of the District of Columbia, the Medical society, the Homeopathic Medical society, the District of Columbia Osteopathic association, the Chiropractic society of the District of Columbia, the Washington Board of Trade, and numerous citizen associations.

Senator Copeland Sponsor
Dr. Royal S. Copeland (R), senator from New York, a practicing medical doctor, offered the bill in the senate and directed its course through the committees and the two chambers. He willingly accepted the amendment offered by Christian Scientists, and assisted in shaping it acceptably to the Medical society. The act is the product of numerous hearings and conferences held over a period of several years.

"The bill will not prohibit the practice of those who believe in other methods of healing than the prescribing of medicine or the performance of surgical operations," the report made to congress by the committees that considered the legislation declared.

"Instead, it specifically authorizes the practice of so-called 'drugless' methods of healing. In other words the object of the proposed legislation is not to give any monopoly to what are known as 'medical doctors,' but to afford ample opportunity without discrimination for the practice of any system, provided only that the practitioner shall have such adequate knowledge of the human anatomy and other basic sciences and of his own particular method of healing as is necessary to protect the public against injury and fraud."

No Restriction on Methods

Even the requirements of examination and licensing which apply to other drugless methods of healing are not applied to those who practice religious healing. Except for this and a few other exemptions, the act prohibits the practice of healing without a license or legal registration.

GASOLINE PRICE VARIES GREATLY

Range From 12 Cents To 21 Cents Per Gallon Over Nation

Washington, D. C., April 23.—There were 77 different prices for gasoline prevailing in the United States on February 19, 1929.

The price range was all the way from 12 cents a gallon to 24.5 cents a gallon for straight run, and from 15 cents to 27.5 a gallon for high test gasoline, exclusive of the gas tax, which varies in almost every state.

These and other startling figures on the divergence of gasoline prices in the country were ascertained through a simultaneous, nationwide check-up by 1005 motor clubs affiliated with the American Automobile Association and reported to national headquarters here.

In order to secure an accurate picture of the gasoline price range on a given day, identical forms were sent to every A. A. A. club throughout the country; the local clubs in turn checked the prices in their respective areas and returned the forms to Washington.

The lowest price on the date of the check-up was 12 cents for straight run and 15 cents for high test gasoline at Muskogee, Okla.,

Tires of Waiting, Steals Street Car

St. Louis, Mo., April 23.—Stuart Overlin, was late getting home and had tired of waiting for the owl car to take him there.

He went into a car barn and helped himself to a street car in which he started home. He was overtaken by police after a two mile ride.

and the highest was 24.5 for straight run and 27.5 for high test at Wallace, Idaho.

As in previous check-ups, proximity to sources of supply appeared to be a negligible factor in determining current prices, says the A. A. A., since prices were in many instances as high close to the oil fields as they were at points to which a long haul was necessary. Prices at tidewater were on the whole as high as those charged at inland points.

Late Permits Issued

Forty-two permits were issued in the last three months of 1928 for projects to be started this spring, and have now been completed. These projects, according to the permits, cost $134,850, but will not go on record for this year. Each year a large number of permits were issued during October, November, and December for spring work, and the amount issued by Hildeson for early construction this year broke all records.

Mayor Hildeson predicts for Salem a great constructive year, significance of the city's progress. "We find this year, that a better class of homes is being built than ever before. Everything points toward direct progress in the city, and undoubtedly, all previous totals in construction costs will be exceeded," he stated.

He indicated the completion of the sewage treatment plant, the proposed water project and contemplated construction of an over-head bridge at the Lincoln rd. Pennsylvania grade crossing, as instances in the city's progress. He also predicted the starting of another improvement, to cost $200,000, by one of the local factories.

NAVY LIMIT

yards have been working overtime on the construction of those vessels which were not limited in the Washington conference treaties.

In a similar parlance, Ambassador Gibson has now invited them to "put up or shut up."

Proposal Well Timed

The America proposal was nicely timed. As Ambassador Gibson pointed out, fifty-odd nations have just signed the multi-lateral treaty renouncing war as an instrument of national policy. And if they are sincere in this, he emphasized, there appears now no plausible reason why they should not refrain from building and maintaining naval establishments beyond those needed for ordinary defense and police purposes.

The last naval reduction conference, between the United States, Great Britain and Japan, broke down because Britain insisted upon severely limiting 10,000-ton cruisers, which she does not need, and establishing virtually no limitation upon smaller cruisers. With her coaling stations and naval bases all over the world, Britain has no particular need of the larger-type cruisers.

The smaller type serve her just as well. On the other hand, the larger cruisers are necessary to the United States because of the long distances between American bases, Hawaii to the Philippines, for instance.

France Wanted Subs

The Washington conference partially broke down because France would not agree to any limitation in submarines. France wanted to build up a great force of submarines to offset Britain's superiority in surface fighting ships.

To get around these perennial barriers the United States now proposes to make the reduction applicable to every type of naval fighting craft, and to work it out on the basis of relative needs. That is, if Great Britain decides she needs so many 7,500-ton cruisers, the American quota will be worked out on a lesser number of 10,000-ton cruisers, more adaptable to her peculiar needs.

"To each according to his needs," is roughly the American proposal. "It is not considered likely in Washington that there will be any immediate action. For one thing, a British general election is just around the corner. For another, France will never consent to armament reduction of any sort so long as the German reparations question is still unsettled. These two factors alone will operate to prevent action. The American proposal was simply planted for future growth—perhaps to flower at the second Washington conference in 1931.

Ambassador Gibson's speech was written in Washington before he sailed for Geneva. It was worked out in a series of conferences between President Hoover, Secretary of State Stimson, and Gibson himself, aided by naval technicians.

under a tree on which he had been chopping. Apparently he had been struck over the head without warning, then shot as he was lying down.

Coroner Investigates

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan stated previous to being shot the person committing the murder had struck him on the back of the head with a blunt instrument, causing concussion of the brain. A rifle or revolver was then used to end his life. The bullet being recovered imbedded into the ground, where it had entered after penetrating Goldner's body.

Police Chief T. W. Thompson and Patrolman Ralph Stoffer and William Reardon have been active on the seven-months old mystery, and only last month, another suspect was taken in the case, but was also released due to the lack of incriminating evidence.

Modern College Youth as Serious Minded as of Old

Unexpected Comment in Their Favor by Own Deans

THE pocket flask, coonskin coat, tumbledown socks and futuristic flivver are not typical of the collegiate. Your typical college student is a serious-minded young man—or woman—who is particular about appearance and eschews these idiosyncrasies.

Such is the opinion of 200 college heads, according to Henry Gratton Boyle, dean of men at George Washington University, whose conclusions are based upon 300 replies received to questionnaires sent to 400 colleges and universities.

The "collegiate" of the stage and the comic papers constitutes a negligible fraction of the whole American student body. These replies agreed. Opinion was about evenly divided as to whether there is any connection between the attempt to be "collegiate" and such problems as drinking and "necking."

Thomas A. Clark, dean of men at the University of Illinois, touched upon the drinking and "necking" phases, saying "necking is more open but not more common than it once was. I think there is less drinking than there was once in college."

Clarence W. Mendell, dean at Yale, expressed the belief that "there has been a great deal of exaggeration in many statements regarding the undergraduates of today," adding: "I should say that among the undergraduates at Yale there is a certain amount of extreme behavior, but in general it does not show itself in dress. On the whole the undergraduates have pretty sane ideas although they naturally do a great many crazy things, but their extravagances are offset by a greater intellectual ability than that possessed by the graduates of a generation ago."

DEAN CLARENCE W. MENDELL OF YALE UNIVERSITY

So more power to the modern college youth. He certainly "knows his deans" and has them rooting for him.

True Love Never Recognized Any Weight Limit

Living Skeleton Fights Daredevil in Love for Fat Lady

YOU'D think a 46-pound man in his right mind would take someone his own size. But Love knows no discrimination. As soon as Bill Barrow, the Living Skeleton in a side show, laid eyes on Jelly Nelly, the 783-pound nymph, he was spoiled for all other women.

Bill's affection was not unrequited, either. Nelly loved him with a passion which can only be inspired by true love. In fact, she thrived on it. Her appetite increased, her eyes were brighter, her spirits rose and—so did her weight.

Soon their cloud of happiness burst. They quarreled bitterly and separated, each going to a separate end of the world to join separate shows. Some time elapsed before the two met again.

It was in Manila, where Fate brought Bill and Nelly together again at the carnival where the Jolly Fat Girl was working. Bill, elated after the long period of separation, made immediate overtures, but alas, Nelly confided that someone had stepped into Bill's shoes—legally, at that.

Just at that moment Daredevil Dave, for it was none other than he who had won her heart, stepped into Nelly's tent. He made it very evident that he didn't approve of Nelly's choice of friends, but said nothing. Bill took the hint.

A sleepless night, however, brought him back to the show the next day. He simply couldn't stay away, even with the image of the daring motorcyclist before him, he who defied the force of gravity by riding around a perpendicular wall.

This time Dave lost his patience. It was going to be a fight to the finish, and it would be worth it, too, for the heart of the winsome Jolly Nelly. But it didn't take Dave very long to "do up" the 46-pound eunuch.

The upshot of it all was that Nelly kept her man, Daredevil Dave got a jail sentence besides having to pay $750 for Bill's hospital bills, and the Living Skeleton, who weighed himself after leaving the hospital, finds that he now weighs exactly 41 pounds, which, even for a skeleton, is what you'd call a meager weight.

The striking of bells on board ship dates from the time of the half-hour sand glass. The bell was struck each time the glass was turned.

BALLOON RACES WILL BE HELD IN PITTSBURGH

International Event To Be Staged Saturday, May 4th

Pittsburgh.—Undaunted by the disastrous climax to last year's International Balloon races here, in which two balloonists were killed, twelve balloons will take to the skies from the University of Pittsburgh stadium on Saturday, May 4, to compete for $2,900 in cash prizes.

The 1929 International Races are to be held on connection with an Aeronautic exhibition on May 2, 3 and 4 which is expected to attract the largest commercial airplanes in the world.

Lieutenant Commander Charles A. Rosendahl, commandant of the dirigible Los Angeles, will be the race referee, while Lieut. Charles E. Bauch, known as "the hero of the Shenandoah," will be technical or operations officer.

Most of the civilian balloonists who rode out the disastrous storm in last year's race, which started from Bettis Field, Pittsburgh, May 30, are entered in the 1929 race. There will be only 12 balloons against 14 in 1928.

Three places have been reserved for the Detroit Balloon Club, with Edward J. Hill, Art Schlosser, Waldemar Alexander Klifoff and Dr. George M. LeGallee as pilots, all of whom were in last year's race. Capt. Edmund W. Hill and Lieutenant U. G. Ent, members of last year's Army contingent, will fly again. Lt. Ent was aide to Lieut. Paul Evert, killed when their balloon was struck by lightning. Ward T. Van Orman, whose aide, Walter W. Morton, also was killed by lightning, will again pilot the Goodyear entry. His aide has not yet been named. Captain Harry E. Honeywell, dean of American balloonists, will take off on his 583rd balloon flight in the race. He also was a survivor of last year's storm. C. A. Palmer, winner of third place in last year's race, again will pilot for the American Business Club of Akron, O.

In this year's race Lieutenant Ent will fly as aide to Captain William J. Flood. Both are stationed at Langley Field, Va. Capt. Hill will fly another Army entry with Lieut. Robert Heald as aide. Both are stationed at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill. Lieutenant L. A. Lawson will pilot the third Army entry with Lieut. Edgar Fogelsongar, Scott Field, Belleville, Ill. Lieut. Haynie McCormick, Scott Field, will be in charge of the three Army balloons, technically known as "Army Operations Officer."

The 1928 races were won by Capt. William E. Kepner and Lieut. William O. Eareckson.

Debt Parley Respite

In addition to the general gloom overhanging the tangle of German war debt reparations negotiations, the sudden death of Lord Revelstoke, financial giant of Great Britain, has caused a temporary adjournment. It is thought that he broke down under the great strain of the tense situation.

FASTER TRAVEL TO EUROPE TO AID INDUSTRY

New England States Will Benefit Is Prediction

Boston, April 23.—Possibility of a direct, fast passenger and freight service to European ports in the near future, providing the freight traffic necessary to maintain the service now exists or can be obtained, was forecast for New England industry by Commodore Herbert Hartley, formerly of the Leviathan.

The importance of such a trans-Atlantic transportation service to New England industry has been stressed by its advocates and is attested to by the fact that the co-operation of New England railroads is promised.

Finances Arranged

Definite financing plans have already been arranged, according to Commodore Hartley, and its establishment is now subject only to reasonable assurance of an ocean mail contract under the terms of the Merchant Marine Act of 1928, and the establishment of the fact that the necessary freight exists, or could be secured.

The proposed line would operate under the name of the New England Mail Packet Line. It would consist of an initial fleet composed of five modern sister ships of 16 knots speed, each capable of carrying 120 cabin passengers and 7,000 tons of freight. It would provide regular weekly sailings both east and west, serving Boston, Providence, New London and Portland on this side of the Atlantic, and ports in England, France, Holland and Belgium.

Passenger Service

Satisfactory passenger service is expected because of the growing popularity of cabin and tourist passenger vessels. Not all the necessary freight is expected to be provided by New England industries at first but it is expected that with the co-operation of the New England railroads much of the freight could be obtained from mid-western shippers.

An ocean mail contract under the terms of the Merchant Marine act is expected by the line's backers and the revenue from this source should be sufficient to meet the fixed charges on the vessels.

Dear Friends:—

Mr. Kent took me off the advertising staff of the Kent's American Dry Cleaners eight weeks ago and put me to work in the back room. He said if he needed a good ad writer later, he'd let me know.

I figured he'd see his mistake and sure enough, he called me in yesterday and told me to get busy and write some more of those literary gems.

You can't hide talent.

I'd like to swamp Mr. Kent with business now — absolutely swamp him — just to show what good advertising will do. With some co-operation from you folks, we can do it too.

Are you with me? If so, tell him so when you call up.

Daily Egg Supply For Policemen

Columbus, O., April 23. — City prison officials are seriously considering the advisability of displaying a "strictly fresh eggs for sale" sign on the local bastille.

When two cops passed a young negro carrying a crate of chickens Saturday night, the negro dropped the crate and fled. The officers lodged the chickens in jail. During their stay in the bastille yesterday, they laid a half dozen eggs. They have not as yet been claimed, and it looks as if city officials will have a daily egg supply.

Springermen Face Canton McKinley, Akron Central Saturday

Salem Clashes With Tough Opposition In Second Meet Of Year

Possibilities that Salem High will have a much stronger track aggregation than was looked for previous to the season's opening are seen with the excellent display of talent in the opening meet last Saturday. The team made up mostly of under-classesmen, with only slight varsity experience, made Salem once again the favorite to win the county championship, and makes it apparent that it will be in the race for first honors in the event at Reilly Stadium this Saturday.

Canton McKinley, last year the runnerup to Salem in the district meet, and Akron Central, who hasn't been anything extra for seasons, will furnish the opposition for the Springermen this weekend. McKinley last Saturday gave Akron South a trimming, out-did most of Salem's marks, and in general looks the better squad, but little is known of Central.

Coach Red Armstrong, Central tutor, is facing what appears to be an epidemic in northeastern Ohio schools—the lack of veteran material, and the graduation of Bob Smith, last January, has nothing outstanding. Salem hasn't a single track wonder, but displayed fairly strong all-around talent, while McKinley has several lads of more than ordinary prowess.

Rudy To Aid McKinley

Allen Rudy, holder of the state interscholastic half-mile record, will probably give Ward Young's track team a big edge in the point-making, being one of the best in the middle-distance runs in this part of the state. He was given a beating in the mile and 220 Saturday by Bell Creek South athlete, but won seconds in each, and will probably get a Salem in the events here, as neither Salem nor Akron Central have any strong talent in these races.

Rudy's mark in the half-mile stands at 1 min. 59.5 sec., less than five seconds over the national record, made by Ted Meredith of Merensburg Academy years ago. He wasn't chased in the event Saturday, and coasted through to win in 2:14, slightly better than the mark made in the triangular meet here.

Harold Walker's mark of 4:33 in the mile was better than the mark of the McKinley meet, and in the remaining events it was about 50-50. Central will probably split a lot of the points, so there is no figuring the meet in any manner.

Salem Shows Improvement

That Salem has the best track outfit in the county was somewhat apparent, as Lisbon and Palestine were booked to outdo it when the county meet rolled around. Wells-ville, Leetonia, and Liverpool never do have anything wonderful, but Leetonia's distance runner, Wagon-hauser will take the mile from Walker, if the former runs anything like he did last year, and will also win the half. The smaller schools all have some lad that can claim a better mark than any in the larger squads, and this will go towards changing the status of the affair in a ways.

Whatever way one looks at it, it must be admitted that Salem's team did far better than was ever expected of it. Reese, in the hurdles, Hutchinson in the dashes, Beck in the high jump, Walker in the mile, Terry in the shot, Smith and Van Blaricom in the discus, all gave the Red and Black outfit a far more superior appearance than a few weeks past.

County Teams Weak

That this appears to be true, however, is no indication that the Red and Black will garner its fifth consecutive county title because of its great strength. The only way this can come about is for other circuit squads to be much weaker than ever before, and that is just about the way things stack up at present. Salem is nothing outstanding, but others appear to be just about weak enough to again submit to another annihilation by Coach Wilbur Springer's proteges.

Plenty can happen between now and May 11th, the date of the county event. The other county schools will in all probability become strengthened, so will Salem, but in what way the latter will materialize only an optimist can conjecture.

The main problem now is to lick McKinley and Central, and get even for last year's result, when Salem was nosed out by the Wardmen. It will be a miracle if this occurs, but these miracles sometimes do come about, and not always in story books.

Following Saturday's competition Springer and Ruffner will take the boys to either Columbus, where the Ohio Relays are scheduled, or to the Carnegie Tech cinder struggle at Pittsburgh. It all depends on how things pan out this Saturday where they go.

Columbiana High Starts Track Season With Several Veterans

Columbiana, April 23—Inclement weather of the past two weeks has somewhat retarded the practice sessions of the Columbiana High School track team, most of the work being held indoors in the school gym. Prospects look good for the team, several experienced runners being left from last year's squad.

Coach Edgar F. Miller will send a team to the Ohio Relays at Columbus, May 3rd and 4th, and the team will, of course, compete in the Columbiana county meet May 9th, and in the District meet at Salem, May 18th. There is also a probability of the school being represented at an invitation meet at Beaver Falls next Saturday.

The following candidates reported for practice this week: Dowd, Harold, Baughman, Kyser, P. Zellers, G. Zellers, Wonstler, Rupert, W. Keller, G. Keller, Fred Detwiler, Crawford, Stahl, Leonard, Metz, P. Detwiler, Turnbull Thoman, Dill, Brinker Bender, Clapp, Brungard, Miller, Schnauffer, Maurer, Fitzsimmons, Mather, Dishong and Arbuckle.

P. Detwiler, Bender, Schnauffer, G. Zellers, P. Zellers, Brungard, Rupert, Fred Detwiler, Fitzsimmons, and Leonard are chief sprint contenders. Rupert, W. Keller and Stahl will fight it out for the half mile run, and G. Keller and Kyser are trying out for the mile. The leading hurdlers are Brinker, Harold, Arbuckle and Crawford. The shot-put candidates are Fitzsimmons, Mather and Clapp, while Fitzsimmons and Turnbull are out for the discus.

Leonard and McFadden are leaving the javelin, and Maurer is trying the pole vault. Patterson, Maurer and Metz are high jumpers, and Rupert, Brungard and the Zellers brothers are the broad jumpers. Of last year's winning relay team, G. Zellers and Rupert are still available.

Maxie To Use Phone Today

New York, April 23—Time and distance are being annihilated to facilitate the matchmaking for the great milk fund fistic carnival.

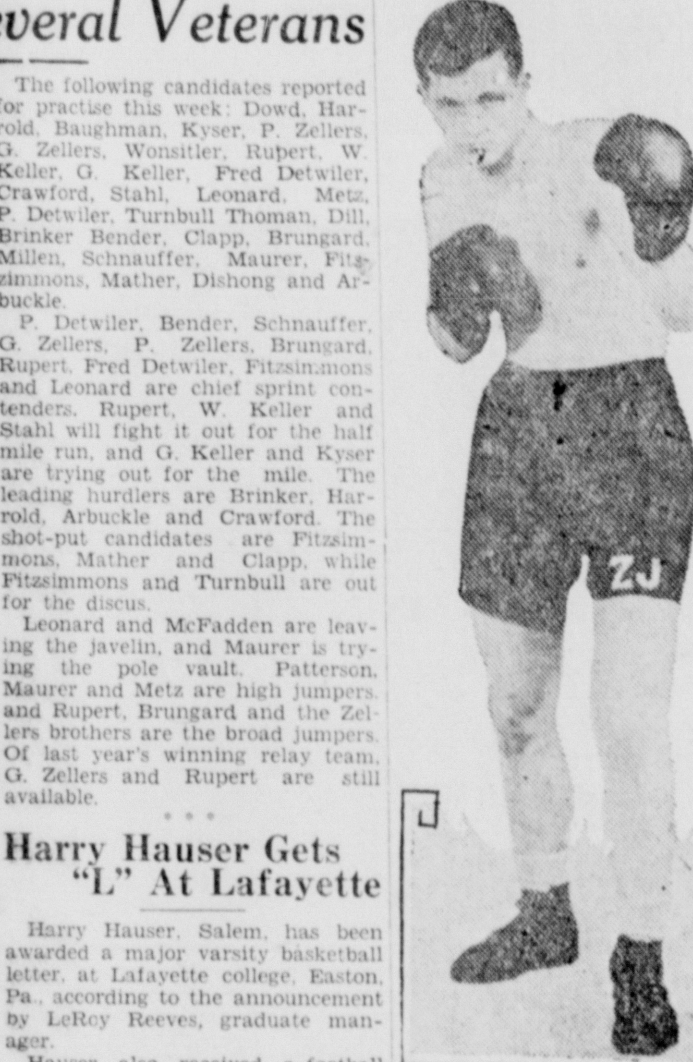

At six o'clock tonight Herr Max Schmeling will nonchalantly pick up a telephone in Berlin, call his number in German and Joe Jacobs will answer in English over a French phone at Madison Square Garden.

Jacobs, American manager of the German heavyweight, expected to persuade Schmeling to leave Berlin by the end of this week in tow of Professor Williams McCarney, who is in Berlin. Jacobs will advise Schmeling not to delay his departure for America, where a fortune awaits him for putting up his hands with Senor Paulino Uzcudum, at the Yankee Stadium, on June 27.

The trans-Atlantic telephone service, newly-installed in Berlin, was invoked yesterday for the first time in the closing of a boxing match.

Schmeling was asleep at the time. When he calls New York today he is expected to consent to start for New York immediately.

Fights Here

Zeke Jones, flashy Dover scrapper, will meet Young Terry McGovern in a six-round preliminary of the Mullins Foremen's club fight show at the Memorial gym Friday night. Jones is a real crowd-pleaser, showing plenty of knowledge of the fistic art in the first appearance in a Salem ring two months ago, when he easily won his battle.

Cubs Still Swat Pill With Gusto; Indians Lose 10-0

New York, April 23—As the second week of the National League season starts, the Chicago Cubs continue to live up to their 1929 reputation of being heavy hitters. In five games they have collected 56 hits, including 13 doubles and six home runs, for a team average of .318.

But it is the work of three of their pitchers—Percy Malone, Guy Bush and Sheriff Blake—that has made them favorites to win the pennant. Three, four and five hits a game is the lean menu they have been doling out to rival teams. McCarthy's twirlers have not been scored upon in their last 26 innings on the mound, St. Louis and Pittsburgh being the victims. In winning his second start of the season yesterday Malone held the cards to five hits and gained a 3 to 0 decision over the Veteran Grover Alexander, who had started the season with a winning five-hit performance.

Hornsby's home run, his second of the season, was enough to beat Alex yesterday.

George Uhle, who enjoys a good year every other season, is due to resume his place among the leaders this year. He pitched Detroit to a 1 to 0 victory over the St. Louis Browns yesterday for his second win of the campaign.

With Allen delivering four hits, Cincinnati came to life and bumped off the Pirates, 9 to 4. A six-run rally in the seventh turned the trick.

The hitless White Sox also did a form flip-flop and pounded four Cleveland pitchers for ten runs, while Alphonse Thomas blanked the Indians.

Rain again held all the eastern teams idle. The Giants, who were unable to play a single game of their series in Boston, were favored with fair weather for their opening at home against the Phillies today.

WOODS and WATERS

by HOMER BOW

Anglers of Ohio have not been able to get in the early spring fishing in streams and rivers of Ohio that the Buckeye state usually offers, due to the high waters which have been present in the rivers of the northern and southern watersheds of the state.

The Vermilion river, one of the prime bass streams that empties into Lake Erie, and the Muskingum, a fisherman's Mecca that ends at Marietta and the Ohio, have not yielded the usual quota, along with all other streams of the state.

Usually the vast army of anglers in the state, who suffer from an annual return of the fishing fever early in March, are in the convalescent stage at this time, but with the lack of angling, temperatures are sure to remain above normal for some time yet. There is one consolation in the high waters and few fish taken, however, and that is in the fact that there are just that many more to spawn this spring with a big increase next season, if the weather man again dishes out a normal dose of rain.

Floods have other advantages also. Reports are coming in from Louisiana that the vast area flooded by the Mississippi two years ago is now teeming with fish. Lakes which were near barren were restocked by the vast supply present in the "Father of Waters." One ardent fisherman in that state tells that the fishing is now the best that he can recall in many years of angling in lakes of the Creole state.

Here is a little tip that will work out when waters are muddy and a bit out of banks. Fish close to the water's edge. Do not get the bait far out into the stream into the regular spot, as it probably will be unproductive.

There does not seem to be any real basis to substantiate the statement that in high water fish move close to the bank, but I have taken them in this manner, during high water, when a bait placed well out in the stream was unproductive. This, of course, applies to bait fishermen. Fly fishermen and members of the plug and spinner heaving fraternity are practically out of luck.

Lakes, however, seem to have been a bit better than usual this spring. Reports from many of them are highly gratifying. Bass crappies (shad), perch and the other spring bitters have been taken in large numbers.

Perhaps the old saw "it's an ill wind that blows nobody good" might be revised into "it's an ill flood that flows nobody good" due to the better chances of propagation with less fish caught.

But, speaking of ill and good winds, it is hard to trace the good that followed the northeaster that swept Lake Erie recently. Waters in the west end of the lake raised to a level which was higher than that recorded for many years. The wind piled up big waves that did an estimated amount of damage to shoreline property, roads were flooded and the fishing industry disrupted.

Inland fishermen will feel the effects of the gale as many fish are transported each year from Lake Erie in trucks and in the fish car "Buckeye." These fish are mature and are taken as breeders and placed into inland streams and lakes of the state.

They are obtained from commercial fishermen who use trap nets. The companies operating the tiny tugs have nothing to do with the transaction, but the state department rewards the fishermen, themselves, for the game fish they place in cans and bring in for transportation.

The industry is so affected that but few fish will be distributed this year, reports state. Despite high water at Put-In-Bay, the state fish hatchery there was not affected. Ponds were "lifted" without undue loss.

Seven Hits In Row For Rogers Hornsby

Chicago, April 23—With a record of having reached first base nine consecutive times—two walks and seven straight hits—Rogers Hornsby of the Chicago Cubs today boasted a batting average for the season to date of .562.

Hornsby climaxed his sensational slide yesterday with a home run for his seventh consecutive hit. It was off the delivery of Grover Alexander of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The blow helped the Cubs score their second successive shutout of the National League champions.

In Playhouses Of Salem

"HOLD 'EM YALE"
Rod La Roque in the epochal picture of modern days furnishes thrills for Salem movie fans at the Grand theatre tonight and Wednesday in the famous "Hold 'Em Yale."

The production is a humorous, whimsical romance of collegiate romance, with La Roque taking the head of the class of all-time comedy performances. With him in the picture is Jeanette Loff, as the feminine star; Tom Kennedy, Joseph Cawthorne, and Hugh Allen in other leading roles.

It is an entertaining affair with full quota of laughs, thrills, adventure and love interest.

"His Angel Child," a comedy, and chapter seven of "Terrible People" round out the program.

"THE HOUSE OF SHAME"

To Virginia Brown Faire go the major acting honors in "The House of Shame," featured at the Royal. This little lady rises to supreme dramatic heights and she is ably seconded by the emotional histrionics of Creighton Hale and the restrained acting of Lloyd Whitlock.

Florence Dudley is "the other woman" and she is fair to look upon and a capable actress.

The picture as a whole is not a sadder, gloomy thing, but a vivid page torn from the book of life. Some lighter moments relieve the suspense, but the plot moves irresistibly to its end as sure as Fate. You'll like "The House of Shame"—it's sophisticated, decidedly but no one will be any the worse for seeing it—perhaps a lot better.

"WALKING BACK"

Sue Carroll is probably at the height of her history-making career in "Walking Back," which goes into its second evening of a three-day run at the State tonight. With her in leading characterizations are Richard Walling, Ivan Lebedeff, James Bradbury, and Florence Turner.

It is a drama of modern youth. The story of a college youth who neglects his studies, wrecks his father's car, disobeys his parents—all because of a girl. The boy is given up by his parents as an impossible representative of "flaming youth," driven mad with the hustle and bustle of modern times.

The girl dramatically takes a hand in his step downward, and endeavors to remake his character. His love for her plays a prominent part in his return to the high place in love all youths of his age should claim. He captures bank bonds by sheer bravery, returns them to police, and midst all his parents forgive him and he and the lass—they lived happily ever after.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

Instead of the annual Spring tonic, whether we need it or not, most of us are being advised to "eat more greens." Nothing so purifying to the blood, and so generally wholesome. No matter what else we eat, there should be one or two green vegetables included in the substantial meal of the day.

Here is another misunderstood word. Greens do not apply exclusively to vegetables of that color. The red tomato, the purple eggplant, yellow squash, are greens. How can you know all the varieties and there are a great many?

One group of greens is the loose, leafy variety. Spinach, watercress, dandelion, and the tops of root vegetables like beets, radishes, turnips. Some of them may be eaten raw, served as a salad with any dressing you like. Or they may be boiled in very little water—just the drops adhering to the leaves after washing.

Then there is the type of green that grows on stalks. Celery, broccoli, asparagus, leeks, are in this class.

Head vegetables are among the best known of all greens, and they include cabbage, kohlrabi, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, artichokes.

Fourth is the group of pods—these watery vegetables containing large seeds. Among them are tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers, squash, eggplant. Peas and beans are also in this group, when they are fresh, but not when they are dried.

With such a liberal range from which to make a choice, there is little difficulty in supplying the family table with a nutritious quota of greens every day, and yet avoiding monotony. Especially when, in addition to these different species of greens, there is a variety in each group. There are half a dozen kinds of lettuce, many kinds of cabbage, and many kinds of squash.

The leafy greens are best when eaten raw, and this applies also to tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers. Indeed, whatever is edible raw should be eaten that way, unless it is not in its first youth, then the only way it can be made attractive is to cook it daintily.

Be careful not to overcook the greens. The leafy kinds can be cooked anywhere from 5 to 25 minutes, depending upon their freshness. Cooking too long may toughen and spoil them. For example, some people have the theory that cabbage is so difficult of digestion that it must cook for hours in order to make it tender. Not a bit. The fact is that cabbage, being a rather fibrous green, disagrees with some people, and the only safe thing for them is to leave it alone. (We all have our peculiarities, 8-m. find even milk, the perfect food, obnoxious to their system.) But cabbage should never be cooked long. New cabbage can be tender as asparagus in 15 to 20 minutes of cooking. If cabbage is not tender by the end of 40 minutes, the chances are that it will never be tender. Long cooking may turn it to an edible, potato-like consistency. But it will not be fit to eat.

Nor should green vegetables ever be fried in thick coatings of egg and breadcrumbs. If you prefer them pan-fried, put just a little butter in the pan as needed, and simmer slowly. This is called "saute-ing" and is a delicate pan-cooking process. Eggplant, tomatoes, cucumbers, green squash, can be cooked this way and are quite delicious. In cooking greens you can test frequently with a fork for tenderness, without spoiling the dish.

Why do we call it cream sauce when it doesn't contain any cream? Probably for the same reason that the pudding without plums is called plum pudding.

Cream sauce is merely a name, and those who are particular about calling foods by their correct terms refer to it as white sauce. It's the most widely used of all sauces in this country, is the basis for others less known, and is one of the dishes which every cook must know how to make. It's easy enough, but there are two common errors. One is to make it too thick, the other is a less forgivable slip, to serve it with tiny lumps. For of all things, cream or white sauce must be smooth. Really it should be cooked properly so that it attains this creamy consistency, but to make sure, most cooks run it through a sieve before serving.

Here is a basic recipe for thick white sauce. It may be used with any kind of vegetable, or added to diced chicken, shrimp, oysters, etc.

White Sauce

Two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one cup milk, half teaspoon salt.

Melt the butter in a saucepan, rub in the flour and salt, and gradually add the milk. Stir constantly, and when it is smooth and thick and begins to bubble, remove. Or, add the vegetables or other foods to be served with it.

There are hundreds of variations to this white sauce, and you can choose your flavorings to suit the food. Spices like curry, mace, paprika, mustard, thyme, clove, are suitable for some meats and vegetables. A spoonful of lemon juice or of onion juice, peps up the white sauce marvelously. Tomatoes, parsley, mint, chives, green peppers, are among the fresh vegetables added to white sauce to give it flavor.

If the white sauce is to be used to thicken soups the proportions are different.

White Sauce (thin)
One tablespoon butter, one table-spoon flour, one cup milk, three cups of liquid (juice in which vegetables or meat have been cooked).

Melt the butter, rub in the flour, and gradually add the milk and other liquid.

These are literally white sauces. But many people like cream sauces that are just what they are called. For this purpose either sweet or sour cream may be used, and the flour omitted. The result is delicious. The sauce has not the pasty taste which is unavoidable in flour mixtures, and in addition the cream makes it invariably smooth and free of lumps.

To make a genuine cream sauce use one cup of sweet or sour cream to every two cups of liquid. If it is for cream soup, one cup of sweet or sour cream for every four cups of liquid.

Add sweet cream after the hot cooked vegetable has been placed in a hot serving bowl. The cream may be warmed slightly, but should not be permitted to come to a boil. Sour cream may be added to any hot cooked vegetable with a little melted butter, and gently heated, but not permitted to boil. It thickens the sauce adequately, and while most of the sourness disappears in cooking it does leave a very pleasing flavor.

STYLE EDICTS

Paris, April 23.—"Show the eyebrows" seems to be the newest slogan of French modistes and this means to show both of them. Smartest spring models have a general tendency to cover the forehead a little more than usual, but they do not conceal either of the eyebrows.

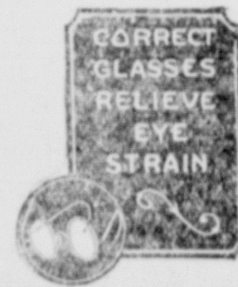

There are a good many wide-brimmed hats with both asymmetric and irregular brims, in the new exotic straws, and a number of afternoon hats of felt feature the line very long over the ears and back of the neck with some original wing or rabbit's ear effect on the sides.

The brim which is larger on the right side and the pieced treatment of the crown were outstanding points of a brown and beige fur felt. Another point to be observed is the raising of the brims high on the crown, developing a deep, drooping brim, a slightly lower back and a very small front brim. Increased width at the back is noticeable on practically all new hats.

Original forms of insets and applied trimmings are seen on new spring models, the most popular taking the form of a conventional design inserted on the crown in a contrasting color or toning shade.

Parents Understood this Baby's Language

"We thought we were going to lose our baby, teething," says a Kentucky mother. "He couldn't digest anything and was getting thinner every day. After one of his fretful, crying nights, I thought of Castoria and got some. A few drops made him comfortable, and after a few days, he seemed like a different baby." Doctors everywhere recommend Fletcher's Castoria for colic, constipation, and other ills of babies and children, and millions of mothers know its gentle influence is best. Avoid imitations. The Fletcher signature is the mark of genuine Castoria. Adv.

THE GUMPS—A CHANGE FOR THE WORSE

Amarillans Not "Hicks" Won't Pay for Cut Opera

Guarantors of Deficit Dare Operatic Company to Sue Them

THE citizens of Amarillo, Texas, are up in arms against the Chicago Civic Opera Company since the performance there of "Thais," a short while ago. Mary Garden, as prima donna of the opera, came in for her share of it.

It seems the Texans offered the Chicago company a guarantee of $12,500 before it consented to play in the tiny town of Amarillo. Two checks were duly presented to the manager at the close of the performance—one for $10,000 and another post-dated for $2,500 to cover the deficit.

Today, however, the guarantors refuse to honor the check for the lesser amount, for very definite reasons, and they don't care who knows it. Col. Ernest O. Thompson, Mayor of Amarillo, acting as spokesman for the guarantors, said: "Amarillo is not a 'Toonerville,' and we do not intend to be taken for a ride by a big company from a big city. The performance was hurried and sloppy, and the performers were evidently saving their voices for what they considered more sophisticated audiences."

The claim that the piece was cut for Amarillan delicacy gave further rise to the defense that "we are not Hicks; we know our opera as well as metropolitan audiences, and we won't stand for any delinquencies."

The unkindest cut of all, however, was that aimed at the famous prima donna. The caustic editor of a local publication printed a few well-chosen remarks which wrung cries of retribution from the famous diva. But he stood by his guns.

Sue and let sue, says Amarillo. They won't find us wanting if it comes to a showdown. We may be little, but oh my!

Dallas, Texas Given Title Of "Air Crossroad Of Southland"

Rapid Growth of Aviation Brings Texas City To Leading Position In Freight and Passenger Service

Dallas, Tex., April 23.—With the rapid growth of aviation Dallas has become the "Air Crossroad of the Southwest."

Two air mail lines now entering Dallas are the National Air Transport from Dallas to Chicago and the Southern Air Transport with two lines, one from Dallas to Houston and Galveston and the other from Dallas to San Antonio to Brownsville.

Air Mail Line

The existing passenger line extends from Dallas to El Paso. Routes under contemplation will run from Dallas to St. Louis and Kansas City, Dallas to Louisville, Dallas to Los Angeles, Dallas to Colorado Springs, Dallas to Birmingham and Dallas to Chicago.

In airports Dallas was fortunate to be able to buy Love Field, a 173 acre tract which was created by the government during the World War for the training of pilots. The field is a good sized and has twelve hangars as well as repair and service stations.

Midway Field, consisting of 300 acres has more recently been bought by the city for contract lines at the suggestion of the Chamber of Commerce.

Private schools for pilots are operated at Love Field with a total enrollment of 70 students. At this field three companies maintain a night and day taxi service giving short flights over the city or renting planes for long distance flight.

Plane Production

The production angle has not been slighted in the development and one company has started the manufacture of planes on an extensive scale. All well-known makes of airplanes are represented in Dallas by sales offices.

A photographic service covering the southwest is operating from a Dallas base by Fairchild Aerial Surveys, Inc., a branch of the Fairchild Camera Corporation.

The Army still maintains a base in Dallas, operating a radio station and two hangars in charge of a lieutenant. The Texas Department of Commerce inspector also maintains headquarters here.

In addition to all these activities which are well developed, the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, through its aviation committee and its aviation secretary, is underwriting air mail, assisting in the promotion of new lines, financing the development of new fields and in other ways promoting still further advancement in aviation.

FIVE YEARS OF SUFFERING ENDED; KONJOLA LAUDED

"I Have New and Splendid Health All Over," Declares Lady Who Found a Surprise in New Compound

MRS. KATHERINE NEMENS

"Stomach trouble and nervousness just about made a wreck of me in five years, and to be well again gives me more joy than I can describe," said Mrs. Katherine Nemens, 28 Hollywood Boulevard, Youngstown.

"The lightest foods caused gas, bloating and general misery. I could not sleep at night, I was so nervous, and sat up most every night reading, knowing that pain and suffering were sure and certain if I laid down. The smallest noises irritated me, and my general health was running low. After meals the gas pressure was so severe that I felt like my heart would stop any minute."

"I tried, day after day, of Konjola's remarkable achievements and decided to give it a trial. Today my nerves are as strong as steel. Every sign of indigestion has disappeared. I can eat and sleep like a normal, healthy person. A change like this, it seems to me, is little less than a miracle. Konjola will always have a place in my home."

Konjola is sold in Salem at all J. H. Lease drug stores and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

New System Ordered to Reduce Burdensome Home Study

BOYS and girls, don't you just wish you were going to school in New York? Just listen to the good news about home work. The school leaders promised not to give the New York boys and girls very much work outside of school hours.

Yes, sir, Dr. William J. O'Shea, Superintendent of Schools in New York, must have remembered his school days when he issued orders to reduce the students' home work to a minimum. Here's the way the schedule will run:

No home work during the first four years. Then for three years only light work requiring not over an hour to accomplish. "However," writes Dr. O'Shea, "pupils may be encouraged to read all home supplementary readers and books which are included in the courses of study."

"Of more importance than home study lessons or home work is the proper use of the study periods in schools and the development in pupils of the art of study."

Monotonous tasks such as writing sentences and words repeatedly are frowned on because they become so distasteful to the students and make their school work a drudgery without teaching them to use their minds.

This radical change is a step in a new direction for public schools which have always tried to force knowledge on all students, bright and slow alike, by using the same system for study on both. The new regime can vary the assignments to meet the individual abilities of the students and really make school a pleasure and not a bugbear.

Life-Time Stock of Clubs, Handles Float Down Tennessee River In Plant's Destruction

Knoxville, Tenn., April 23.—Citizens in the Muscle Shoals district of Alabama are seeking some practical use for a life-time stock of handles and golf sticks following the destruction of three handle factories at Harriman, Tenn., by flood waters recently.

The handles and link sticks floating down the Tennessee river were left high and dry in the Muscle Shoals area when the waters receded, according to B. A. Timmons, auditor, who returned here after a visit to Alabama.

CHRYSLER SALON ATTRACTS MANY

Driving Comfort featured In Innovations On New Models

Last night at the Smith garage show rooms at High and Vine a large and enthusiastic throng attended the opening of the spring display of Chrysler-built Plymouth motor cars where the latest Plymouth models with many important mechanical improvements are being shown.

"Many of the mechanical improvements are to be found in the engine," according to Mr. Smith, sales manager, "where a longer stroke and greater piston displacement, longer connecting rods, heavier crankshaft, larger main bearings, and improved lubrication have been used to produce greatly improved acceleration and a remarkable degree of smoothness."

Among the other new features are an improved steering mechanism and a new type exhaust manifold which has been designed to carry the hot exhaust gases from the engine at the front rather than at the rear. This is a feature that is particularly desirable during the summer driving season as it promotes driving comfort by minimizing the possibility of engine heat entering the front compartment.

A large number of other improvements which add to the ease of operation, the comfort, and the dependability of the Plymouth are also to be found on the models now on display.

That "dollar for dollar, the return from newspaper advertising is much greater than from any other form of advertising" was the opinion recently expressed by the president of one of the largest department stores in Chicago.
